FRAUD CHARGED
IN AUTO RAFFLE

Two Tickets of Same Number Turned
up in Connersville and Oxford Men Register Kick.

ASKED FOR AN EXPLANATION

Number of Local Merchants Interested—Attorney Retained by the Promoters of the Deal.

Evidences of fraud have been unearthed in a recent raffle in Connersville in which an automobile was given away. Cries of fraud have gone out even from some of the merchants in this city, who gave tickets on the machine. The Greek candy store here claims that the number was given out at their store. But a Con-nersville man won the machine and an Oxford merchant says he gave out the ticket to a Cincinnati man.
He was in Connersville yesterday with the ticket. The following from the Connersville News will be of interest here.

A furor which lately arose here
over the result of a raffle, in which an automobile was given away, came to a head Monday afternoon in the City Hall. The particulars of this affle were never published in the News, for the reason that the postal laws wisely perhaps prohibit newspapers from carrying the news of such things through the mails. The same provision will account for much generality in the account of Monday's doings in the City Hall, and of the chain of events of which it was the fruition.

Soon after the raffle, which was conducted by R. C. Fields of this city, Jack Matthews, a friend of Mr.
Fields appeared with the winning number and received the car. At about the same time a cry of fraud
in the raffle went up from College Corner, Ohio, and especially from Oxford, for in that town, it is alleged,
the whole series of five hundred tickets, among which the winning number occurred, was bought by a merchant,
A. A. Burkhardt by name. He, in turn, it is alleged, gave the whole five hundred out to people in or near Oxford. The feeling there, therefore, was strong from the first that someone in or near Oxford had drawn the car.

Monday a delegation from Oxford,
among which were A. F. Sloane, ex-mayor of the town, George Burkhardt, P. M. Whaley, J. W. Hutchinson, Morris O'Neal and half a dozen other business men came to Con-nersville. With them came one Adolph M. Wilson of Cincinnati, who brought with him the winning number, a duplicate of that which Matthews held. Mr. Wilson and those who were with him say that while the affle was going on, he was in Oxford, where he was employed as an electrician and secured many of the tickets at the restaurant where he boarded. He had ten or twelve tickets, among them the winner, all plainly torn from a book at one stroke, as their ends showed. Also he had many other tickets, all of the same general appearance.

These men interviewed Mr. Fields,
who conducted the raffle, and Mr.
Matthews who won the car, and held a lengthy conference with them, early Monday afternoon in the City Hall.
The two winning tickets were compared, and showed some minor points of difference. It is steadfastly claimed by the Oxford men that the ticket held by Mr. Wilson is plainly one of the series, and the winning ticket. That held by Matthews, they openly declare, to be a forgery. Mr.
Matthews, it is alleged, destroyed all his tickets saving the one which got him the car.

in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Paul Colvin of Indianapolis, formerly of this city, in attempting to step off a moving car near her home in Prospect street Saturday night fell heavily to the pavement and it was thought for a time she was badly hurt. Friends of Mrs. Colvin rushed to her side expecting to find her seriously injured, but it is thought nothing serious will result. Mrs. Colvin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
James C. Gregg of North Harrison street.

ARE UNITED AFTER
NINETEEN YEARS

Loma Moore of Colorado Springs and Thomas Moore of This County
Brought Together.

BROTHER HAS PARALYSIS

After being separated from her brother, Thomas Moore, of Henderson, for nineteen years, Miss Loma Moore of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is here at his bedside. Mr. Moore suffered a stroke of paralysis recently, and it was the fear that she might never see him alive that caused his sister to journey all this distance. Mr. Moore has lost the use of one side of his body, and he is said
to be in a bad condition.

Miss Moore has not seen her brother, Ed Moore for sixteen years,
and it was a very pleasant meeting
when the three got together again
after a long time.

FIRST CAR WITH GLASS PARTITION

I. & C. Tries Out Plan Which May be Adopted on all Passengers—
No. 316 Repaired.

TO TEST BLOCK SIGNAL WITH IT

Car number 316, the first one on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company's lines to have a glass
partition between the motorman's compartment and the smoker, has been repaired and repainted and was given a trial run over the lines Sunday. It will be remembered it was announced some time ago the company expected to equip some cars
in this manner and see if it proved satisfactory. If it does, it is likely all cars will be that way eventually.
The repaired car has Adams Express Company painted on the side. This is the first one with the inscription,
as the I. & C. began to handle Adams
packages only a few months ago.

Car number 316 has another new appliance. It is equipped for use with a block signal. The block signal system has been installed on the Shelbyville division of the road, and will be tested out in a short time.
This car will be used in making the tests. Some time ago members of the State railroad commission and representatives of other traction lines came here to inspect.

PRICE TESTIFIES
IN OWN BEHALF

Tells Straightforward Story of Incidents on Day of Tragedy on His Farm.

JURY MAY GET CASE TOMORROW

Ortho Denton, Age 15, Nephew of Defendant, Testifies Cook's Wife Brought Gun.

Zachariah Price testified in his own behalf today at Greensburg, where he is being tried for the murder of his farm tenant, Fletcher Cook. He was called to the stand at eleven o'clock and concluded his evidence about three o'clock this afternoon.

Price was expected to be the last witness. It was said Mrs. Price would be placed on the stand, but she is sick and has been unable to attend the trial for the last few days. It was not expected Price's cross examination would consume much time, after which the attorneys would make their arguments. The case may get to the jury some time late tomorrow.

Price told a straightforward story.
He declared that he fired five shots
from a revolver straight at Cook, and that the tenant fell on his face in the mud just outside the barn door. He testified Mrs. Cook took the gun from her husband's hands, and with an oath said: "You killed my husband,
now I'll kill you. The defendant said he took the gun from Mrs. Cook, and his nephew, Denton, leveled his shotgun at her and ordered her back in the house.

The defendant said his nephew
pointed his gun at the Cook house, where Mrs. Cook was, all the time their buggy was in shooting distance of the house. They drove straight to Butlerville. Price said he never said a word to Mrs. Cook after the shooting. He declared that he bought the revolver with which he did the shooting three weeks before the tragedy
and carried it constantly.

Price told of his agreement with Cook, saying he offered to pay him
by the day or give him a third of the crops. He testified he bought Cook $23 worth of furniture when he moved on his farm, and that he offered Cook a sow if he would raise pigs for both of them. He testified that he had heard Cook had made threats against his life.

Ortho Denton, age eighteen, nephew of Price, who lives in Butlerville, was placed on the stand again this morning. He testified late yesterday. He was brought back this morning by the defense to prove an assertion of his,
made yesterday, that the five shots were fired successively and at intervals of one and two-fifths seconds.

In order to determine whether or not this was possible, a test was held in the presence of the jury this morning. The count was that the five shots could not be fired faster than two and one-fifth seconds. Denton was cross examined this morning and stuck to his original story in the main although he was slightly confused.

He testified he and his uncle arranged at Butlerville on Saturday night previous to the tragedy to go hunting on the farm where Cook lived, on Tuesday following. He met his uncle again Monday night, he said,
and they drove to Price's home.
Leaving there early Tuesday morning they drove to the home of Cook,
the youth said, each taking a shotgun. He said he did not know his uncle had a revolver.

After the usual salutations, according to Denton's testimony, and after Price had told Cook they had come out to the farm to look over the place and to hunt, Cook said with an oath that he would give him (Price)

CAMPAIGN WILL BE ON WEDNESDAY

Boys' Work Will be Discussed by F.
A. Crosby, Chicago Expert, at Sessions Tomorrow.

TO BE ILLUSTRATED AT NIGHT

Speaker Will Address High School
in Morning—Committee Reports
to be Used.

Opening Program.

2:45 p. m.—Boys Work Theme—
F. A. Crosby.
Open Conference.
7:30 p. m.—Devotions.
7:45 p. m.—Illustrated lecture on work of Boy Scouts of America, followed by boys'
work theme.

Tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church at the corner of Third and Morgan streets the three day campaign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, for which much preparation has been made, will be started.

The first day will be devoted to boys' work discussion. The managers of the campaign believe they have the best man in the whole United States to discuss this most important topic. F. A. Crosby is at the head of the boys' department of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., which insures the local managers point out that he is well versed on the subject
else he would not hold such an important position.

Mr. Crosby is a leading authority on boys work. The members of the local committee on boys' work, as well as the other men interested in the movement, declare every father in Rushville should hear Mr. Crosby both afternoon and evening. He is being brought to Rushville at a great expense and the committeemen hope the men and boys of Rushville will take advantage of the opportunity to hear him.

Mr. Crosby will arrive here tomorrow morning at nine-thirty o'clock and will go straight to the Graham high school building where he will address the high school. He will leave on a late train tomorrow evening.

The workers in this movement hope that the men and boys of Rushville
will respond to their call to come out.
A number of business men have promised to attend every afternoon.
The committees are attempting to get the pledges of all the men they can so as to insure as good a crowd as possible.

As soon as Mr. Crosby arrives in Rushville, Ralph Payne, chairman of the local committee on boys' work, will hand his report to him. This committee has gathered statistics in an effort to get at what the boys of Rushville are doing, how they spend their time, and whether or not they are being cared for as they should.

This report will likely be the basis of Crosby's discussion here. That will make his two addresses especially interesting in that they will be local and will apply to conditions here. Of course, it is supposed he will make comments on the conditions
shown by the report and offer solutions to the problems.

It has been arranged for Mr.
Crosby to give a lecture illustrated with stereopticon preceeding his regular talk Wednesday evening. The views will be on the Boy Scouts work of America and lecture will not be of more than thirty minutes duration.
It is the belief of Mr. Crosby that the Boy Scout work gets to a boy better than any known method.

The same plan will be followed in all of the departments of the movement. The reports which have been made by the committees on socialism and other phases will be handed to the respective experts and they will touch on local conditions as gleaned
from the reports.

CARTRIDGE IN TOBACCO

J. I. Farlow of Milroy Lights Pipe—
Explosion Follows.

J. I. Farlow of Milroy had a cartridge in his smoking tobacco and thereby hangs a tale. Mr. Farlow filled his pipe and leaned back for a pleasant smoke. He struck a match and applied it. The result was unexpected. The cartridge exploded and his pipe was blown into smith-erines. A piece of the pipe struck Farlow just below the left eye and made a very painful flesh wound. The missile only missed his eye by a narrow margin.

FURNITURE PLANT

Force of 35 or 40 Men Employed in
New Factory—Many Orders
Are Received.

SALESMEN BRING RESULTS

The Rushville Furniture company's fifty thousand dollar plant is now running and making furniture in large lots. Already several orders have been filled and a number of shipments have been made. It was some time ago that the company's samples were completed and photographs taken of them. Immediately the line was placed in the hands of salesmen, and they have brought results.

Between thirty-five and forty men
are now employed at the furniture factory. The force will be increased as the work demands. It is expected the business expand within the next year so that a much larger force will be employed.

gan work in the county auditor's office. A. N. Doyle of Marion came this morning and L. D. Hutchins of Wabash arrived yesterday. The examiners will go over the reports of the county auditor and the county

these offices up until 1911 have al-

WILL PUT PLANS
INTO EXECUTION

Federated Charities Will Appoint Ten
Women to Canvass City and Learn True Conditions.

MAKE POOR LESS DEPENDENT

System is Being Arranged to Cause
Those Seeking Aid to Save Money.

Ideas for the bettering of the conditions of the poor in Rushville were expressed at the second meeting of the Federated Charities of Rushville
at the court house late yesterday afternoon. Many of the ideas will be executed, and an effort will be made to see if the poor of the city can not be taught to help themselves more,
and depend less on charity.

One of the plans decided on yesterday was to name ten women who will canvass the city and find the true conditions among the poor people who have been depending in a large measure on charity. It shall be the duty of these women to tell dependent people that they will have to depend on their own resources more.

A system has been suggested for the dependent people of the city to save their money during the warmer months so they will be prepared to buy fuel, clothing and food during the winter months when they depend on charity most. This system will probably be tried out, but the details of it will not be made public until they have all been worked out and it is decided it will be feasible.

It will be remembered that when the idea of federating the charitable organizations of Rushville was first suggested, it was planned to prepare a book on which should be kept an account with every person in Rushville helped by charity. This book is now being prepared, and will show
the earning capacity of every family benefited and the amount each family has received from charitable sources. This book will be kept in a public place and may be consulted by anyone.

It was the object, when the charitable organizations were federated,
to do away with the overlapping in giving. It is with that intent that the public book is being prepared. It is urgently requested that persons who plan to give to the poor, consult members of the federation to determine whether or not such giving will be worthy, if they do not know already that the family to be benefited is worthy.

Hereafter the meeting of the charity organization will be held every Monday until the plans are all worked out.

ARE FINDING FEWER DOGS

Township Assessors Say They Are Scarce Here in City.

The tax assessors of Rushville township, who are taking the assessments in the city of Rushville are finding fewer dogs than they did last year and the indications are that the dog tax fund in the township for this year will be much smaller than in the past. In the country districts of the township, however, pretty plenty of dogs are being found and already the assessor, who is assessing the county districts, has found ninety dogs, and his work is not yet half done.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seems a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery. Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

BRIBERY CASES OUT OF COURT

Gary Complaints Nolleed By Judge Van Fleet.

WITNESSES ARE MISSING

Inability of the State to Produce Three Witnesses Whose Testimony Was Regarded by the Prosecution as Vital, Led to the Dismissal of the Dean Charges, Though Defense Wanted the Trials to Proceed.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 16.—Special Judge Vernon Van Fleet of Elkhart granted the petition of Special Prosecutor Hodges to nolle the Gary bribery cases against Thomas Knotts, mayor of Gary; John J. Nyhoff, former commissioner of the board of public works, and Emerson Bowser, a Gary councilman, growing out of the Dean heating franchise. The attorneys for the defense asked that the court begin the trials, but this motion was overruled. Mr. Hodges pleaded inability of the state to produce witnesses on whom it had relied to make its case.

The Missing Witness.

The witnesses referred to were Anthony Baukus, a Gary councilman, who fled after being indicted for bribery, forfeiting a $2,000 bond; Meyer Himelblau, the stenographer, who swore to an affidavit charging Dean with "doctoring" the dictograph record of convictions held with the accused men, and Harry Moose, city clerk, whose whereabouts are unknown.

The case against City Engineer Wilkison, over which a jury disagreed in his trial here in January, was not called, and no disposition of the case has been planned by the prosecution. This action of Judge Van Fleet does not prevent the cases being reopened in Lake county courts under new affidavits.

ANTI-TREATING

Indianapolis Germans to Cut Out Convivial Drinking.

Indianapolis, April 16.—A movement against the practices in the American saloon is in progress among some of those of German nativity or descent in Indianapolis, and at a meeting of the federated German societies cards were circulated asking those present to sign a pledge that they will not drink at the bar, and that they will not treat in the saloons. The movement has for its purpose the placing of American saloons more nearly on the basis of the German "guest house" and the elimination of promiscuous treating among strangers and bystanders, such as is prevalent in this country.

Stabbed Wife and Self.

Elkhart, Ind., April 16.—Jesse Knepper, aged fifty, a Lake Shore engineer, while suffering from dementia, stabbed his wife in the abdomen and then wounded himself with a butcher knife. His wife's injury is not serious, but the doctors say Knepper will die. Knepper says he has the Lord's sanction for all he has done. He was awaiting commitment to the northern hospital for the insane.

Body Dragged by Cars.

Veedersburg, Ind., April 16.—The mutilated body of John Pritchard, aged twenty-eight, of this city, was found beside the Big Four railroad tracks in the suburbs. It is believed he was struck and killed by an early morning passenger train. The body had been dragged some distance. The skull was crushed and the right arm cut off.

Court Suspended Sentence.

Marion, Ind., April 16.—Clarence C. Canode, aged twenty-four, of Portland, who pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to from two to fourteen years in the state reformatory, was given his freedom by Judge Paulus, who suspended sentence during good behavior. Canode must repay the Adams Express company $278.26 with interest.

March Birth Statistics.

Indianapolis, April 16.—The total number of births in Indiana in March, according to the report of the state board of health, was 4,137, of which 2,159 were boys. The state birth rate for the month was 17.8. White county reported the highest rate, 34.1, while Benton county, with a rate of 7.4, reported the lowest.

Thrown Under the Wheels.

Indianapolis, April 16.—William Moore, a brakeman for the Indianapolis Union Railway company, was ground to death under freight cars which were being shifted at Kentucky avenue and the Belt railroad. Moore attempted to board one of the cars but slipped and was thrown under the wheels.

Made an Easy Getaway.

Huntington, Ind., April 16.—While Roscoe Smith was being tried on a charge of assault and battery upon Mrs. Erwin Goble, a neighbor, he suddenly and silently decided the courtroom was no place for him. Roscoe arose, walked calmly from the scene and fled, the officers know not where.

Hanna's Green Seal "The Made-to-Wear Paint"

If you expect to do any painting, you are interested—you should be—in the quality of the paint to be used.

In any given job of painting, labor represents practically two-thirds, material one-third the cost.

It stands to reason that with so much expense in labor, the enduring quality of the paint is all important.

Why have the painting done unless the protection and durability of the job is sought?

How is one to determine the true value and obtain paint that may be depended upon for durability?

HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT IS NOT A SECRET. This paint has the printed formula on every package.

The makers have confidence and take pride in the quality and tell the public the composition of the paint.

FIERY ITCHING SKIN

Soothing Remedy That Clears Away the Eruption.
Try it at Our Risk.

When your skin is on fire with an itching, burning eruption that is only made worse by scratching, it is high time to do something.

In our opinion the most certainly satisfactory treatment is our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve for it is truly remarkable in all forms of eczema and other itching, crusty or scaly eruptions of the skin.

This remedy quickly stops all itching and penetrates the skin pores so that its healing, germ-destroying action reaches the very roots of the disease.

GREATEST SHIP SHATTERED

More Than a Thousand Lives Lost Off the Banks.

New York, April 16.—When the Titanic of the White Star line, the biggest and finest of steamships, shattered herself against an iceberg Sunday night and sank with 1,500 of her passengers and crew in less than four hours, there was recorded the greatest marine disaster in the history of the world.

Out of nearly 2,200 people that she carried, only 675 were saved and most of these were women and children. They were picked up from small boats by the Cunarder Carpathia, which found, when she ended her desperate race against time, a sea strewn with wreckage of the lost ship and the bodies of drowned men and women.

Among the 1,320 passengers of the giant liner were Colonel John J. Astor and his wife; Isidor Straus, Major Archibald W. Butt, George B. Widener and Mrs. Widener of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Harper, William T. Stead, the London journalist, and many more whose names are known on both sides of the Atlantic. The news that few besides women and children were saved has caused the greatest apprehension as to the fate of these.

Lesson to Navigators.

When the Titanic plunged headlong against a wall of ice at 10:40 p. m., on Sunday night, her fate established that no modern steamship is unsinkable and that all of a large passenger list cannot be saved in a liner's small boats. The White Star line believed that the Titanic was practically invulnerable and insisted until there was no doubting the full extent of the catastrophe that she could not sink. The great ship was the last word in modern scientific construction, but she found the ocean floor almost as quickly as a wooden ship.

On her maiden trip, the Titanic, built and equipped at a cost of $10,000,000, a floating palace, found her graveyard. Swinging from the westerly steamship lane at the south of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, to take the direct run to this port, she hurled her giant bulk against an iceberg that rose from an immense field drifting unseasonably from the Arctic. Running at high speed into that grim and silent enemy of seafarers, the shock crushed her bow. From a happy, comfortable vessel she was converted in a few minutes into a ship of misery and dreadful suffering.

Through rent plates and timbers water rushed so swiftly that her captain, E. J. Smith, knew there was no hope of saving her. That much the faltering wireless has told us.

When the News Ceased.

The officials of the White Star line since have been struggling to get into communication with the Carpathia, which has on board the 675 women and children from the Titanic, but not word of news could they obtain. All they could get by wireless was the fact that the Carpathia, which left New York on April 13 for the Mediterranean, was retracing her course to this port bringing here the women and children who were widowed and orphaned by the disaster. The Marconi stations were trying also to get in touch with either the Carpathia or the Allan liner Virginian, to find out if all the rescued were on the Carpathia or whether the Virginian carries others that were saved. But the Marconi people were unsuccessful and it is not known if the Virginian transferred all of those she picked up to the Carpathia.

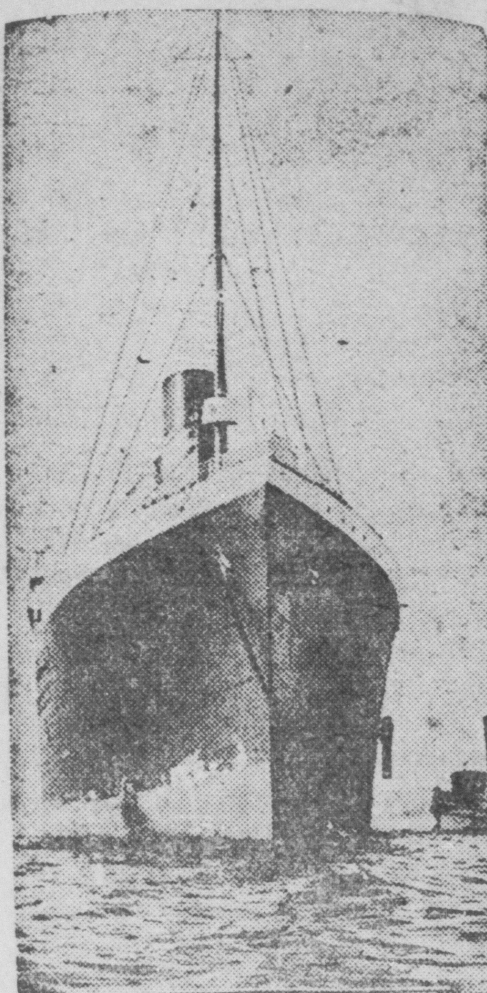

The latest news was that the Carpathia has started for New York. She should reach here some time tomorrow afternoon.

Distinguished Passenger List.

Hundreds of well-known Americans had taken passage on the Titanic—some for the novelty of participating in the maiden voyage of the finest of all steamships, others because of the unsurpassed comforts and luxuries provided by the $10,000,000 ship. Among these are Colonel John Jacob Astor and his bride of a few months; Alfred Vanderbilt, the head of his family; Major A. W. Butt, military aide to President Taft, who was on his way home after carrying a message to Pope Pius; Isidor Straus, the merchant, a brother of Nathan and Oscar Straus, and a partner in the great department store concern of Macy & Co.; Mr. and Mrs. George Widener of Philadelphia; Mrs. E. L. Appleton; Frank Kittel, the artist; Benjamin Guggenheim of the well-known family of that name; Henry B. Harris, the theatrical manager, and Mrs. Harris; William T. Stead, the London editor; J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line; C. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railroad; Henry Harper of Harper & Co., the publishers, and Mrs. Harper; the Countess Rothes; Colonel Washington Roebling.

John Jacob Astor was among the passengers who went down with the Titanic, according to a wireless dispatch received by Bradstreets from the liner Olympic. Mrs. Astor was saved and is being brought ashore by the Carpathia. The wireless operator at Cape Race says: "Eighteen hundred lives have been lost in the wreck of the Titanic." A wireless message from the Olympic says that the Carpathia is on her way to New York with 866 of the passengers of the Titanic on board. Most of them are women and children, says the message, which concluded with these words: "Grave fears are felt for the safety of the balance of the passengers and the crew."

HIS LAST WORD

Phillips Thought of Parents in Moment of Dire Danger.

London, April 16.—The parents of Phillips, the wireless operator on board the Titanic, received the following message from their son at their home in Surrey: "Making slowly for Halifax; practically unsinkable. Don't worry."

The diary of the Marconi operator at Cape Race covering the receipt of dispatches from the Titanic, which were cabled to London, says Phillips, the wireless man on the liner, seemed to be absolutely cool. He sent steadily throughout and used the best judgment.

J. A. Phillips, the wireless operator on the Titanic, is an Englishman, about twenty-five years of age, and has been in the service of the company about five years. He had been transferred to the Titanic from the Oceanic, upon which vessel he served as operator for about a year. He was highly thought of by the company.

Their Policies.

The friends and supporters of Colonel Roosevelt have a great deal to say about the policies which prevailed during the time the Colonel occupied the presidential chair, generally referring to them as the "Roosevelt policies."

During the time President Taft was secretary of war he was the former president's most trusted counselor and adviser, and nearly all of the policies that marked the Roosevelt administration from February, 1904, to July, 1908, and which became popularly known as "Roosevelt policies" were formulated by Mr. Taft. This is a fact well known to the cabinet members of that day, and to his friends Mr. Roosevelt frequently acknowledged that Taft was the real inventor of many of the popular policies which had been attributed to himself.

As late as September 9, 1908, in a personal letter written by him, to Conrad Kohrs of Helena, Montana, Mr. Roosevelt called attention to the fact that Mr. Taft was equally entitled to credit for the policies for which he, the Colonel, stood. We regret that Colonel Roosevelt's letter to Mr. Kohrs is too long for us to publish it in its entirety, but the following paragraph, taken from the letter, will show how thoroughly the former president appreciated the support and sympathy he received from Mr. Taft:

"I have naturally a peculiar interest in the success of Mr. Taft, and in seeing him backed by a majority in both houses of congress which should heartily support his policies. For the past ten years, while I have been governor of New York and president, I have been thrown into the closest intimacy with him, and he and I have on every essential point stood in heartiest agreement shoulder to shoulder. We have the same view as to what is demanded by the national interest and honor, both within our own borders, and as regards the relations of this nation with other nations. There is no fight for decency and fair dealings which I have waged in which I have not had his heartiest and most effective sympathy and support, and the policies for which I stand are his policies as much as mine."

Hygiene to do it.

At the opening of an isolation hospital at Preston, England, Sir Frederick Treves made a remarkable pronouncement on the subject of hygiene. He believes that the time will come when hospitals for infectious diseases will be empty and not wanted. This is to be accomplished by hygiene. The fight is against millions of microbes, and the weapons are sanitary regulations, municipal government, the sanitary inspector and the health officer. The mystery of the ancient doctor, his long words and extraordinary prescriptions is passing away. The multitude of shelves of bottles which surrounded him also is passing away and being replaced by simple living, suitable diet and plenty of sun and fresh air. Sir Frederick looks forward to the time when people will leave off the extraordinary habit of taking medicine when they are sick and when it will be found as anomalous for persons to die of scarlet fever, typhoid, cholera or diphtheria as for a man to die of the wolf's bite in England.

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the manish derby hats that are being worn by women now will lose all their beauty when it is learned they may be bought at any clothing store for three dollars.

The maintenance of the Panama canal is going to cost $30,000,000 a year, but as our local tax collector never asks us for anything for Uncle Sam we feel confident that this bill will be paid by some other fellows somewhere.

The Springfield Republican remarks that this campaign is not an afternoon tea, and Uncle Sam is getting so grouchy nowadays that he complains of hunger after being fed a square meal of nabisco wafers.

Why is it that when the bank president offers you a ride in his automobile, there are never any of your creditors on the street to see?

An Oklahoma editor is going to walk to the Baltimore convention. Considering the way the trains have been running, that is good judgment if he wants to get there in time.

C. W. Morse must enjoy reading that he has only six months to live. This being able to get your name in the paper without paying space rates has its drawbacks.

As the congressional investigations only cost $100,000 and no harm was done to anything they must be voted a great success.

Editorialesettes.

Commission Prepares Plan Which Will Enable Man Away From Home to Register Under Law.

REPORT IS NOT PUBLIC YET

Places to Register First Time, May 9,
Not Yet Fixed—No Clerks Appointed Yet.

It has been discovered that the new registration law overlooked the voter who may be absent from home or his voting place until election day and thereby unable to register at the required time.

The law in itself, does not say anything in regard to how votes absent on registration days may be registered to be entitled to vote at the election. The state Democratic and Republican organizations, however, felt that some plan ought to be devised by which these absentees could be registered and not be deprived of their right to vote because of unavoidable absence and inability to register, so Fred A. Sims, Republican state chairman, selected William A. Thompson and Bernard Korbey, Democratic state chairman, selected Henry Warrum, and these two lawyers were instructed to prepare a plan on which the two organizations could agree to enable absent voters to register.

This commission has completed its work and submitted its report to the two state chairmen. The understanding is that the report will be published in circular form by Governor Marshall for general discussion and distribution over the state for the information of voters, political party organizations and registration and election boards.

May 9 is the first day this year on which the registration of voters in Indiana will be made under the new registration law passed by the last legislature. There will be a registration place in each voting precinct in the state, and under the law no man has any legal right to vote at any general election who has not duly registered as a voter.

The registration places for the various precincts in Rush county have not yet been fixed by the county commissioners, but will be chosen during the April term. The registration law contemplates that the place selected for the first registration shall also be the place for registration in September and October if possible.

Registration board members will get $4 per day for their services. The inspectors are the only members of the boards so far named in Rush county. The clerks will be selected by the Republican and Democratic chairmen of their respective committees.

The board may be in session three days if the number of voters require so much time, but one day will be the rule. The registration places will be open from 5 a. m. to 6 p. m. and must remain open until 8 p. m., if a voter appears to register every five minutes after 6 p. m.

Early Fisherman Bring Reports of Good Crop This Year.

Some of the early fishermen, who have been tempted down the river by the warmth of the last few days, have carried back reports of very fair evidences of a good fish crop, and of other things less pleasant. The other things are indications of some seining. Most of these signs have been noted in the deep holes, such as no little dip-net could be used in, and the indications were that considerable numbers had been at the scoop-shovel method of taking fish. Also the evidence in this direction was borne out by the fact that, in these places, old and experienced anglers were unable to get so much as a nibble, though they plied the promising waters with all manner of bait known to their long experience.

Mr. H. M. Winkler, 228 Huston Ave., Evansville, Ind., says he was cured of a severe case of kidney trouble through Foley Kidney Pills. He writes "My kidneys were in bad shape, and I suffered terribly with pains in my back, and the kidney action was very irregular. I took Foley Kidney Pills and now I am perfectly well and feel like a new man." F. B. Johnson & Co.

MILROY MAN AN INVENTOR

Frederick Mock Secures Patent on Set of Springs.

Frederick W. Mock, a butcher of Milroy, has patented a set of gate springs of which he is the inventor. The springs are so arranged that a gate of almost any size will close when released. The invention is made up of four steel bars and two springs. It is attached to the gate from the gate-post. Mr. Mock says the springs are especially adapted for chicken and barn yards. The patent was issued to him March 12. It is probable a company will be formed to manufacture the springs.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have a comedy and a drama. "The Vagabonds" is a poetic Irish picture by the Kalem company taken in Ireland. The other film is an Essanay comedy, "Alkali Ike's Love Affair."

The Portola will have for tonight the feature pictures of "The Raising of the Maine." The pictures are in three reels and were taken by permission of the government. The films are said to give a very clear view of the battleship after the explosion and the great work of raising the ship.

The Palace has an American film, "The Best Policy" for the first picture tonight. The picture opens with a spicy bit of action and the scenes are carried along with a snap and go to the very last picture. The story is new and novel in thought and is typically western. "Tweedledum's Father and His Worthy Son," and "Sammy, the Little Boot Boy" are the titles on a split Ambrosia. Due to the fact that the feature "She" has been destroyed it is impossible to show it tomorrow night or any time in the future. In place of "She" "The Christian Martyrs," a hand-colored Gaumont film will be shown, along with "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

The Palace has a program extraordinary tomorrow night, two feature pictures. The first is a Thanhouser, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." It is played very acceptably and gives a heart-gripping feeling of wonder as we see the picture alternate between terror and romance, romance, that is wild with all regret and terror that reaches the depth in our knowledge of evil. The picture is more effective, in its own way, than any of the others that this reviewer has seen; because its idea seems to be merely to bring out this fearful contrast. It is an unusually strong production. The other is the hand-colored picture, "Christian Martyrs," a historical pictorial reproduction, portraying the humiliation, sufferings and persecution of the early Christians in pagan Rome. Real lions appear within six feet of the camera.

The Chalice of Courage

Being the Story of Certain Persons Who Drank of it and Conquered

A Romance of Colorado

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

Author of "The King and the Man," "The Island of Regeneration," "The Better Man," "Hearts and the Highway," "As the Sparks Fly Upward," etc.

Illustrations by Elsworth Young

The wonder was, said the physician, not that she did it then but that she had not done it before. For a short time it appeared as if her illness might be serious, but youth, vigor, a strong body and a good constitution, a heart now free from care and apprehension and a great desire to live and love and be loved, worked wonders.

Newbold had enjoyed no opportunity for private conversation with the woman he loved, which was perhaps just as well. He had the task of readjusting himself to changed conditions; not only to a different environment, but to strange and unusual departures from his long cherished view points.

He could no longer doubt Armstrong's final testimony to the purity of his wife, although he had burned the letters unread, and by the same token he could no longer cherish the dream that she had loved him and him alone. Those words that had preceded that pistol shot had made it possible for him to take Enid Maitland as his wife without doing violence to his sense of honor or his self-respect. Armstrong had made that much reparation. And Newbold could not doubt that the other had known what would be the result of his speech and had chosen his words deliberately; score that last action to his credit. He was a sensitive man, however; he realized the brutal and beast-like part of the and Armstrong had both played before this woman they both loved, how they had battled like savage animals and how but for a lucky interposition he would have added murder to his other disabilities.

He was honest enough to say to himself that he would have done the same thing over under the same circumstances, but that did not absolve his conscience. He did not know how the woman looked at the transaction or looked at him, and he had not enjoyed one moment alone with her. In all that had transpired since that morning in the hut, the four had naturally and inevitably remained inseparably together.

They had buried Armstrong in the snow, Robert Maitland saying over him a brief but fervent petition in which even Newbold joined. Enid Maitland herself had repeated eloquently to her uncle and old Kirkby that night before the fire the story of her rescue from the flood by this man, how he had carried her in the storm to the hut and how he had treated her since; and Maitland had afterwards repeated her account to his brother in Denver.

Maitland had insisted that Newbold share his hospitality, but that young man had refused. Kirkby had a little place not far from Denver and easily accessible to it, and the old man had gladly taken the younger one with him. Newbold had been in a fever of anxiety over Enid Maitland's illness, but his alarm had soon been dispelled by the physician's assurance, and there was nothing now left for him but to wait until she could see him. He inquired for her morning and evening at the great house on the hill; he kept her room a bower of beauty with priceless blossoms, but he had sent no word.

Robert Maitland had promised to let him know, however, so soon as Enid could see him, and it was in pursuance of a telephone message that he was in the library that morning.

He had not yet become accustomed to the world; he had lived so long alone that he had grown somewhat shy and retiring; the habits and customs of years were not to be lightly thrown aside in a week or a month. He had sought no interview with Enid's father heretofore; indeed had rather avoided it, but on this morning he had asked for it, and when Robert Maitland would have withdrawn he begged him to remain.

"Mr. Maitland," Newbold began, "I presume that you know my unfortunate history."

"I have heard the general outlines of it, sir, from my brother and others," answered the other kindly.

"I need not dwell upon it further then. Although my hair is tinged with gray and doubtless I look much older. I was only twenty-eight on my last birthday. I was not born in this section of the country, my home was in Baltimore."

"Do you by any chance belong to the Maryland Newbolds, sir?"

"Yes, they are distantly related to a most excellent family of the same name in Philadelphia, I believe."

"I have always understood that to be the truth."

"Ah, a very satisfactory connection indeed," said Stephen Maitland with no little satisfaction. "Proceed, sir."

"There is nothing much else to say about myself, except that I love your daughter and with your permission I want her for my wife."

Mr. Maitland had thought long and seriously over the state of affairs. He had proposed in his desperation to give her hand to Armstrong if he found her. It had been impossible to keep secret the story of her adventure, her rescue and the death of Armstrong. It was natural and inevitable that gossip should have busied itself with her name. It would therefore have been somewhat difficult for Mr. Maitland to have withheld his consent to her marriage to almost any reputable man who had been thrown so intimately with her, but when the man was so unexceptionably born and bred as Newbold, what had appeared as a more or less disagreeable duty, almost an imperative imposition, became a pleasure!

Mr. Maitland was no bad judge of men when his prejudices were not rampant, and he looked with much satisfaction on the fine, clean limbed, clear eyed, vigorous man who was at present suing for his daughter's hand. Newbold had shaved off his beard and had cropped close his mustache; he was dressed in the habits of civilization and he was almost metamorphosed. His shyness wore away as he talked and his inherited ease of manner and his birthright of good breeding came back to him and sat easily upon him.

Under the circumstances the very best thing that could happen would be a marriage between the two, indeed to be quite honest, Mr. Stephen Maitland would have felt that perhaps under any circumstances his daughter could do no better than commit herself to a man like this.

"I shall never attempt," he said at last, "to constrain my daughter. I think I have learned something by my touch with this life here; perhaps we of Philadelphia need a little broadening in air more free. I am sure that she would never give her hand without her heart, and therefore, she must decide this matter herself. From her own lips you shall have your answer."

"But you, sir; I confess that I should feel easier and happier if I had your sanction and approval."

"Steve," said Mr. Robert Maitland, as the other hesitated, not because he intended to refuse, but because he was loath to say the word that so far as he was concerned would give his daughter into another man's keeping. "I think you can trust Newbold; there are men who knew him years ago; there is abundant evidence and testimony as to his qualities, I vouch for him."

"Robert," answered his brother, "I need no such testimony; the way in which he saved Enid, the way he comforted himself during that period of isolation with her, his present bearing—in short, sir, if a father is ever glad to give away his daughter, I might say I should be glad to entrust her to you. I believe you to be a man of honor and a gentleman; your family is almost as old as my own; as for the disparity in our fortunes, I can easily remedy that."

Newbold smiled at Enid's father, but it was a pleasant smile; albeit with a trace of mockery and a trace of triumph in it.

"Mr. Maitland, I am more grateful to you than I can say for your consent and approval which I shall do my best to merit. I think I may claim to have won your daughter's heart; to have added to that your sanction completes my happiness. As for the disparity in our fortunes, while your generosity touches me profoundly, I hardly think that you need be under any uneasiness as to our material welfare."

"What do you mean?"

"I am a mining engineer, sir; I didn't live five years alone in the mountains of Colorado for nothing."

"Pray, explain yourself, sir."

"Did you find gold in the hills?" asked Robert Maitland, quicker to understand.

"The richest veins on the continent," answered Newbold.

"And nobody knows anything about it?"

"Not a soul."

"Have you located the claims?"

"Only one."

"We'll go back as soon as the snow melts," said the younger Maitland, "and take them up. You are sure?"

"Absolutely."

"But I don't quite understand," queried Mr. Stephen Maitland.

"He means," said his brother, "that he has discovered gold."

"And silver too," interposed Newbold.

"In unlimited quantities," continued the other Maitland.

"Your daughter will have more money than she knows what to do with sir," smiled Newbold.

"God bless me," exclaimed the Philadelphia.

"And that whether she marries me or not, for the richest claim of all is to be taken out in her name," added her lover.

Mr. Stephen Maitland shook the other by the hand vigorously.

"I congratulate you," he said, "you have beaten me on all points; I must therefore regard you as the most eligible of suitors. Gold in these mountains, well, well!"

"And may I see your daughter and plead my cause in person, sir?" asked Newbold.

"Certainly, certainly. Robert, will you oblige me—"

In compliance with his brother's gesture, Robert Maitland touched the bell and bade the answering servant ask Miss Maitland to come to the library.

"Now," said Mr. Stephen Maitland as the servant closed the door, "you and I would leave the young people alone. E. J. Robert?"

"By all means," answered the younger, and opening the door again the two older men went out leaving Newbold alone.

He heard a soft step on the stair in the hall without; the gentle swish of a dress as somebody descended from the floor above. A vision appeared in the doorway. Without a movement in opposition, without a word of remonstrance, without a throb of hesitation on her part, he took her in his arms. From the drawing-room opposite, Mr. Robert Maitland softly tiptoed across the hall and closed the library door, neither of the lovers being aware of his action.

Often and often they had longed for each other on the opposite side of a door, and now at last the woman was in the man's arms and no door rose between them, no barrier kept them apart any longer. There was no obligation of loyalty or honor, real or imagined, to separate them now. They had drunk deep of the chalice of courage, they had drained the cup to the very bottom, they had shown each other that though love was the greatest of passions, honor and loyalty were the most powerful of forces, and now they reaped the reward of their abnegation and devotion.

At last the woman gave herself up to him in complete and entire abandonment without fear and without reproach; and at last the man took what was his own without the shadow of a reservation. She shrank from no pressure of his arms, she turned her face away from no touch of his lips. They two had proved their right to surrender by their ability to conquer.

Speech was hardly necessary between them, and it was not for a long time that coherent words came. Little murmurs of endearment, little passionate whispers of a beloved name—these were enough then.

When he could find strength to deny himself a little and to hold her at arm's length and look at her, he found her paler, thinner and more delicate than when he had seen her in the mountains. She had on some witching creation of pale blue and silver; he didn't know what it was; he didn't care—it made her only more like an angel to him than ever. She found him, too, greatly changed and highly approved the alterations in his appearance.

"Why, Will," she said at last, "I never realized what a handsome man you were."

He laughed at her.

"I always knew you were the most beautiful woman on earth."

"Oh, yes, doubtless when I was the only one."

"And if there were millions you would still be the only one. But it isn't for your beauty alone that I love you. You knew all the time that my fight against loving you was based upon a misinterpretation, a mistake; you didn't tell me because you were thoughtful of a poor woman."

"Should I have told you?"

"No, I have thought it all out. I was loyal through a mistake, but you wouldn't betray a dead sister; you would save her reputation in the mind of the one being that remembered her, at the expense of your own happiness. And if there were nothing else I could love you for that."

"And is there anything else?" asked she who would fain be loved for other qualities.

"Everything," he answered, rapturously drawing her once more to his heart.

"I knew that there would be some way," answered the satisfied woman softly after a little space; "love like ours is not born to fall short of the completest happiness. Oh, how fortunate for me was that idle impulse that turned me up the canon instead of down, for if it had not been for that there would have been no meeting—"

She stopped suddenly, her face aflame at the thought of the conditions of that meeting; she must needs hide her face on his shoulder.

He laughed gayly.

"My little spirit of the fountain, my love, my wife that is to be! Did you know that your father had done me the honor to give me your hand, sub-

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles.

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to the simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

ject to the condition that your heart goes with it?"

"You took that first," answered the woman looking up at him again.

There was a knock on the door. Without waiting for permission it was opened; this time three men entered, for old Kirkby had joined the group. The blushing Enid made an impulsive movement to tear herself away from Newbold's arms, but he shamefully held her close. The three men looked at the two lovers solemnly for a moment and then broke into laughter. It was Kirkby who spoke first.

He Shamefully Held Her Close.

"I hear as how you found gold in them mountains, Mr. Newbold."

"I found something far more valuable than all the gold in Colorado in these mountains," answered the other.

"And what was that?" asked the old frontiersman, curiously and innocently.

"This!" answered Newbold as he kissed the girl again.

A WIDE FLUNG CRY FOR HELP

Marconi's Invention Again Proves Its Worth.

THE VALUE OF THE WIRELESS

As in the Disaster to Republic Three Years Ago, So in the Case of the Titanic the Call For Help Which Went Up From Foundering Vessel Was Heard Far and Wide and Brought Aid Over the Waters.

New York, April 16.—As much at the mercy of fogs and ice as were the oak bottoms of a hundred years ago, are the mighty steel ocean goers of the twentieth century, even though the science of ship building has prevailed against wind and weather.

Staggering in the ice fields into which she had driven at great speed, the Titanic sped call after call to the hurrying liners of the upper roads—the Cunarder Carpathia, the Virginian and the Parisian of the Allan line, the great Baltic, the good Samaritan of the Atlantic, which saved the passengers of the Republic three years ago, and the big Germans that were plowing their way between the continents. And the wireless once more proved its worth, for the Carpathia and the Virginian, wheeling in their course, sped through the night, venturing unknown dangers, and raced up in time to save many lives.

It has been many years since the world was left in such suspense and dread as followed the first faltering calls for help from the crushed Titanic. At 10:30 on Sunday night the Virginian, speeding on her way to Glasgow, picked up the White Star steamship's insistent, frantic "C. Q. D.," the Marconi signal of distress and peril that clears the air of lesser messages and stops ships at sea full in their tracks. Dash by dash and dot by dot, the wireless operator of the Virginian caught the cry for help:

"Have struck an iceberg; badly damaged. Rush aid."

Seaward and landward, J. G. Phillips, the Titanic's wireless man, was hurling the appeal for help. By fits and starts—for the wireless was working unevenly and blurrily—Phillips reported out to the world-crying Titanic's peril. A word or two, scattered phrases, now and then a connected sentence, made up the messages that sent a thrill of apprehension for a thousand miles.

Other rushing liners besides the Virginian heard the call and became on the instant something more than cargo carriers and passenger greyhounds. The big Baltic, 200 miles to the eastward and westbound, turned again to save life as she did when her sister of the White Star fleet, the Republic, was cut down in a fog in January, 1909. The Titanic's mate, the Olympic, the mightiest of sea goers save the Titanic herself, turned in her tracks. All along the northern lane the miracle of the wireless worked for the distressed and sinking ship.

But the Virginian was nearest, barely 170 miles away. She went about and headed under forced draft for the spot indicated in one of the last of Phillips' messages—latitude 40:32 north and longitude 61:18 west. She is a fast ship, the Allan liner, and her wireless has told the story of how she put in her best ticks stretching through the night to get to the Titanic in time. Farther out at sea was the Carpathia, which left New York for the Mediterranean on April 13, and which had felt the chill in the air which all skippers know means the proximity of great bergs drifting down from the Arctic. Round she went and plunged back westward to take a hand in saving life. And the third steamship within short sailing distance of the Titanic was the Parisian.

While they sped in the night with all the drive that steam could give them, the Titanic's call reached to Cape Race in Newfoundland and the startled operator there heard at midnight the cry for help. Cape Race threw the appeal broadcast wherever the antennae of his apparatus could carry, so that for hours, while the world waited for a crumb of news of the ship, not a thing was heard, except that she was drifting and alone in the midst of a great sea of ice. And it was not until seventeen hours after the Titanic had sunk that the words came out of the air as to her fate. There was a confusion and tangle of messages—a jumble of rumors. Good tidings were trodden upon by evil. And no man knew clearly what was taking place in that stretch of waters where the giant icebergs were making a mock of all that the world knew best in ship building.

As the wireless tells the story in fitful, interrupted periods, the sea ways between the icebergs were crowded with the wallowing boats of the Titanic and the great ship herself, bow crushed, half full of water forward, was heeling forward on her forefoot, her stern high out of water, so that the tremendous screws were visible dimly and on the verge of dropping beneath the surface. It was a spectacle of marine disaster that can never fade from the memory of the seamen who came up on the Carpathia—the most wonderful of ships on the verge of her end and her people scattered over the face of the waters in little, rocking boats.

MAJOR BUTT

President's Military Aide Is a Probable Victim of Disaster.

PRESIDENT TAFT IS DEEPLY CONCERNED

Fate of His Military Aide Is In Doubt.

Washington, April 16.—President Taft learned of the appalling news of the sinking of the Titanic when he was at Chase's theater with Mrs. Taft last night. The president was deeply affected and left for the White House soon after receiving it. As soon as he had arrived at the White House the president called for all available details. The president, while shocked at the extent of the loss of life, was, of course, particularly anxious over the safety of his military aide, Major Butt.

Major Butt has been closer to Mr. Taft than any other man. He has accompanied him on all his trips, has been his constant companion on his walks and motor rides, and has joined him in most of his golf games. The president has come to regard him more as a brother than a military aide. Major Butt also enjoyed the closest friendship with Colonel Roosevelt, having served as military aide to him when he was in the White House.

Two Boys and a Gun.

Richmond, Ind., April 16.—Paul Doren, aged ten, accidentally shot his brother Russell, aged thirteen, with a shotgun, the charge entering his face and breast. The younger boy was playing with the gun and the old story of not knowing it was loaded caused the accident. The wounded boy will recover, but may lose an eye.

The big battleship Utah was run into by the British ship Condor off Tompkinsville. The blow smashed two of her plates.

PRICE TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF

something to hunt for. It was then he shouted for his wife, Minerva, to bring him his gun, Denton said.

The boy said he saw his uncle's hand raised and five shots were fired so quickly he did not realize what had happened. Denton said Cook fell on his face in the mud about five feet from the barn door. This testimony was considered important because Mrs. Cook testified only two shots were fired in the barn and that the others were fired after Cook was down.

Attorney Barnes for the State and witness Barnes for the defense had difficulty in clearing up a barn mystery in the trial Monday afternoon.

Stanley Barnes stated in his examination in chief that Willie Campbell, an eyewitness of the tragedy, had stated to him that he did not know whether Mrs. Cook was at the barn when Cook was shot, but that he rather believed she was.

Witness Barnes became confused when Attorney Barnes tried to draw from him whether the conversation took place at the barn or at the house. When the attorney would ask the witness where the conversation took place, the witness would reply, "At the barn or at the house." After considerable objecting and argument, the witness seemed to get a grip on the attorney's questioning, but his answers were apparently not very satisfactory.

John F. Price, brother of the accused, was an important witness for the defense. He said he had told his brother of the threats made by Cook which had been repeated to him by his son-in-law and others.

The testimony of the witnesses on Monday morning was divided. Some testified that Price had been known to quarrel on two occasions with other people, but as a rule all testified that aside from the present trouble they had always known him as a peaceful and law abiding citizen.

Albert A. Tripp said he had known Price twenty years and that his reputation as to peace and quietude was good. He had never heard of any previous trouble that Price was engaged in.

John B. Miller, former contractor and builder, testified that Price bore a good reputation. Cross examined he said he knew it himself and not what others had told him.

John T. Barnes, who lives three-quarters of a mile from the farm, where the tragedy occurred, said that he had always regarded Price's reputation for peace and quietude as good. He admitted that he knew that Price had a little trouble with his brother.

F. Tucker testified he knew Price bore a good reputation. He based this opinion on his own personal knowledge of the man, and from what the neighbors had said. He stated that he had heard once that Zack and Fred Price had had a little trouble, but he knew of no other trouble.

Stanley Barnes, a former resident here, but who lives in the neighborhood of the killing, made an important witness. He testified he had met Cook a few times and had talked with him last October. In this conversation Zack Price's name was brought up about cutting corn and Cook said, "I ain't going to cut the corn and Price, the ———, ain't big enough to make me." Mr. Barnes said he saw Willie Campbell at Cook's the day of the killing, first at the house and two or three times at the barn. Campbell told him Mrs. Cook was in the barn yard, and later on said he did not know where Mrs. Cook was at the time of the shooting. Barnes testified Mrs. Cook told him that she was right in the yard at the time of the killing and that Price pulled a gun on her and told her to go back.

Court did not convene to resume the trial until 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. Many of the witnesses and interested parties had gone to Jennings county to spend Sunday and the train from the south brought most of them to Greensburg.

Judge Wickens has been exceedingly watchful during the entire trial to prevent any needless killing of time by the attorneys on both sides. He has presided with firmness and as a result there has been but little quibbling between counsel.

FRAUD CHARGED IN AUTO RAFFLE

Attorney D. W. McKee was in the City Hall Monday afternoon, representing Mr. Matthews. The latter and Mr. Fields offer no explanation of the matter, other than they deny fraud.

The Oxford men are filled with indignation, and are preparing, it is understood, to launch criminal proceedings against either Matthews or Fields, or both of them. Since the whole transaction was a lottery a civil suit would have no standing in court.

A number of the men who were in Connersville today say that they are here merely in the interest of fair play while those who are merchants, came, they said, at the demand of their customers, and the people of their community who are enraged over the result. A local attorney was consulted by the visitors after the conference at the City Hall.

What the outcome of the unfortunate case will be and what its merits are, of course, can not as yet be known. Certain it is that there is a strong public interest in the case not only in Oxford, but here.

The present complication is expected to go a long way toward putting an end to raffles of all kinds in this vicinity.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Swain and Marshal Pete Wagoner visited the Italian camps Sunday and found things peaceful. No violations of the liquor law were found. The foreigners were warned by the officers not to sell liquors unlawfully.

Saves Miles of Steps

The "Silent" Servant

After you study the above picture you will not wonder that women are anxious to join the Hoosier Club, when by so doing they have a Hoosier Cabinet delivered to their homes on payment of only $1.00.

Think of the hundreds of needless steps every woman you know could save by having her table, pantry, and cupboard, with all her tools and supplies centered in one spot.

Your energy instead of being wasted is saved, and the time spent in your kitchen—the least pleasant part of your work—is reduced by one-half, the moment this famous Hoosier Cabinet comes into your home.

The Hoosier Company sends its 3,000 agents a limited number of Hoosier Cabinets each year to be sold under direct supervision of the factory on the famous Hoosier Club plan.

This year most cities received only 15 cabinets. Our urgent request secured us 25 of these cabinets for the ladies of Rushville.

Only 25 women, therefore, can join the club and have a Hoosier Cabinet delivered immediately on payment of $1.00; balance in a few weekly payments of $1.00. 11 have already enrolled.

The Club Plan differs radically from the installment plan which often is linked with high prices and unknown goods. The low price of the Hoosier Cabinet is fixed everywhere by the factory. No Hoosier Agent can sell for less or more on any terms.

So club members get a great benefit from the liberal club terms. The club probably will be filled very quickly. Those who want Hoosier Cabinets should enroll their names at once.
